SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
University of Wisconsin-Madison

Our Undergraduate Students

Bruce Fritz

School of Business Highlights

- The latest U.S. News & World Report ranking of undergraduate business programs placed UW-Madison 12th among all business schools in the U.S. The school's real estate program was ranked second in the nation and its insurance program was rated third. BusinessWeek ranked the undergraduate business program 10th among public institutions (28th nationwide) and sixth in the nation in terms of return on investment.
- The UW Board of Regents approved a differential tuition proposal for the undergraduate business program that will help the School of Business attract and retain quality faculty members, hire additional staff to support student recruiting, academic advising, and career preparation missions, and to grow the Certificate in Business program. A portion of the revenue will provide financial aid to students.
- Both the undergraduate and graduate accounting programs of the School of Business were ranked in the top 10 in the nation by Public Accounting Report, an independent newsletter covering the accounting profession.
- A business student was one of four University of Wisconsin System students to receive Alliant Energy/Erroll B. Davis, Jr. Achievement Awards recognizing outstanding scholarship and community-service efforts of students from traditionally underrepresented minority groups.
- Wisconsin students won the PricewaterhouseCoopers xTAX competition by offering the best solution to a real-world tax policy problem. Wisconsin teams also won the national competition in 2002 and 2004.

"The General Electric Company has a long history of hiring successful University of Wisconsin business undergraduates into its Financial Leadership Training Program. The education the graduates receive integrates rigorous academic excellence with exposure to real business experiences, providing them with the skills necessary to be a successful leader at GE."

Kerry Pauls
General Electric Company

Accenture Leadership Center

The Accenture Leadership Center offers students leadership training and the opportunity to put that training into practice through a variety of programs and opportunities. The ultimate goal of the Center is to develop students who will graduate more inspired, more confident and with leadership skills that will benefit their future companies and communities.

Since the Center's opening in October 2006:

- 150 students have participated in Accenture Leadership Center programs.
- The Accenture Leadership Center offered eight different workshops and programs, including a six-day leadership "boot camp."
- Four project teams worked on projects for the School of Business, the University and the Madison community.

The Accenture Leadership Center's program continues to grow and will offer additional workshops and programs during the 2007-2008 academic year. In addition, a "for credit" leadership class titled Leadership Development Seminar: Service Learning will be offered in the fall of 2007.

"Our ten-year partnership with the University of Wisconsin-Madison School of Business has yielded many talented associates who demonstrate the initiative and leadership we actively seek. The School of Business consistently produces graduates who are well-prepared to assume leadership roles—graduates who fit perfectly at Kohl's."

Kevin Mansell
President, Kohl's Department Stores

Masters Programs

The Master of Accountancy degree is designed for students seeking advanced preparation for careers in various aspects of accounting. It stresses in-depth study of accounting theory, auditing, taxation, information systems, applications, policy and decision-making. Undergraduate accounting students apply to the Integrated Master of Accountancy degree program (IMAcc) prior to their fifth year. The Graduate Master of Accountancy degree program (GMAcc) is a two-year program for non-accounting majors which also prepares students to obtain the 150 credit hours in accountancy requirement needed to obtain CPA certification.

Master of Science Programs

MS in Actuarial Science

The graduate program in actuarial science prepares students to work in the life, health, pensions and property/casualty areas of practice. Students usually are employed by insurance companies or consulting firms. Masters students have an undergraduate major in a wide variety of disciplines, but most often have mathematics, statistics, or economics backgrounds. While at UW-Madison, these students acquire a foundation in actuarial science, risk management, insurance, economics and statistics courses. These actuarial science graduates are highly marketable, having had the coursework for all of the preliminary exams with some material for the upper-level exams. Graduates become experts in their practice area and begin their work in product development and pricing, accounting or financial functions.

MS in Quantitative Finance

The graduate program in quantitative finance involves coursework in finance, mathematics, statistics, computer science, and economics. Graduates of this program earn the Quantitative Master in Finance specialization as part of their Master of Science in Finance degree. Students are educated and trained to perform quantitative financial modeling and financial research in the areas of asset allocation, valuation of derivatives and fixed income securities, risk management, and securities trading. This year, three students graduated from the program and are moving on to work in academia and in industry.
